March Meeting Recap

On March 21st at TD Bank

Thank you to everyone who attended the March general membership meeting of the Oceanside Chamber of Commerce. After an opportunity to network, the members were treated to three speakers.

Town of Hempstead Councilwoman Laura Ryder was our featured speaker. Councilwoman Ryder discussed various programs that the Town is providing in Oceanside, such as her Small Business Spotlight program, quality of life improvements, and the redevelopment of Oceanside Park. Councilwoman Ryder spoke highly of the Town's interest in willingness to work hand-in-hand with local organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce, in coming up with ideas and suggestions to improve Oceanside.

Gianna Costantino from Trellus was the next speaker.

Trellus provides same day, local delivery service. Trellus' simple tech-based solution automatically sends the closest driver to a small business when an order is submitted. Customers are notified when package is on the way. Go to bytrellus.com for more information.

The final speaker of the evening was Peggy Bushman from ADP. ADP provides payroll services for local businesses—including small businesses. ADP currently has a promotion in which they will provide the Oceanside Chamber of Commerce $1,000 for any new business that is referred to them by the Chamber or a member.

Any business that is interested in this program should contact Ona Kean, Broker District Manager for Small Business.

The meeting was held at the Oceanside branch of TD Bank. Thank you to Store Manager VP Frank Frisone for being such a gracious host and providing refreshments.
